tips & tricks

How do I expose the wire?

There are a few different ways of making the wire a part of an actual design.

First, if you want to keep your design simple, you can use a single strand or multiple strands of wire to showcase a focal bead or pendant. Letting the entire length of the wire lay exposed like a chain.

Second, if you are working with a single strand design, you can crimp on either side of a bead or selection of beads. Expose a piece of wire and repeat your pattern throughout the design.

Third, if you are working with multiple strands of wire, you can weave the strands in and out of the beads, exposing the wire and adding texture to your design.
